

BURLINGTON AGAIN WON

Defeated Crippled Intercity Saturday Afternoon.

VICKERS WAS THE STAR

The Rube Simply Played Horse With the Local Batters—Coombs Was Hit Hard But Hits Were Kept Scattered.

Mr. Reuben Vickers of Burlington-by-the-lake came to town Saturday afternoon with his carpet-bag filled with all sorts of gee-gaws in the curvology repertoire. He met nine men afflicted with the no-hit disease. After nine handshakes all around Mr. Reuben Vickers packed a tidy game of ball along with the gee-gaws and left the Intercity ball grounds a happier and wiser (if possible) base ball player. None of the 350 people in the audience grudged Mr. Vickers his joy over the 4 to 2 victory, for he pitched peerless ball throughout the game, letting down the home team with three hits, without giving a base on balls and incidentally causing the breeze to blow for twelve giants.

Opposed to The Reuben and his carpet-bag was Coombs, "the down-easter," and although Coombs had his hands full he was not entirely responsible for the loss of the game nor for the fact that the visitors swatted the ball for safeties thirteen times. The Giants were crippled. With Uniac flat on his back with a severe strain, with Apperious sulking on the bench because there was a colored man on the opposing team, with McMahon hobbling about because of being spiked and with the other members wearied by the seven games and hard traveling in the five days previous there was little wonder that they didn't give Coombs the best of support.

Two pitchers had to be drafted into service. Burns going to third and Dorman shoving over to short and Morey being put into right field. Burns had an off day Saturday, as did Dorman at short. Morey hadn't a chance in the field but was a failure at the bat, striking out twice at critical periods when a hit would have meant a run. The other Giants were no better with the stick, except Stankard and Coombs. The former hit to left center in the fifth and Deiningger got hold of the ball and then muffed it. Stankard landed for a clean one in the eighth after two were down. Coombs followed with a four-sacker over the center-field fence, thereby preventing what looked like a shut-out. Coombs' hit was a beauty, and was the one feature of the Intercity's game, with the possible exception of a corking stop by Stankard of Aldinger's sharp grounder and throw to first in the fifth.

Next to Vickers' pitching was his hitting. Out of four times up he rapped out three safe ones, on two occasions the hits being timely. Dovid did a stunt very much like Stankard's after he had succeeded Hayes at second base, taking Eaton's grounder on the run and getting his man at first.

With two exceptions Coombs kept the visitors' hits well scattered, but in the second and fifth the bingles came together with a snap. In the second Hayes hit safely, but was doubled up, Coombs to Stankard to Ashmore, on Simon's grounder to the pitcher. Then Skelley landed on the ball for a double-sacker. Brennan followed it up with a single, and Vickers dropped a dinky one in short left which Dorman foolishly tried to take from Shaughnessy and missed entirely. One zero was made, and Coombs disposed of Dovid the third out. In the flush of pride over a hit Deiningger attempted to steal second in the third and died an Eaton-death. Simon singled in the fourth, without result.

In the fifth, however, Burlington's swats, coupled with ball playing a trifle off color, made enough to win the game. Vickers started off with his second safe hit. Dovid attempted to sacrifice toward first. Both Coombs and Ashmore went after the ball and Stankard satred to cover first. Coombs and Ashby fell short several feet of getting the ball and then Stankard made a vain dive for it as it tattered by. In this way Vickers was freighted to second. Deiningger hit an easy grounder to Coombs, who instead of hitting the lumbering "Rube" at third, was content to get Deiningger at first. Apperious' antipathy then swatted a safe swat and Vickers simply had to score. The little colored short stop drew a throw from Eaton to Stankard, and Dovid took the cue, starting for home. He was headed off easily, and then followed a fool play which marked the crisis of the game. The ball fluked back and forth until finally Burns dropped a throw and in his haste to make up, plunked Dovid in the back Dovid didn't mind, as he scored. Matthews was a dark cloud on third when the play ended.

There was more to follow. Stankard gathered in Aldinger's grounder in a finished manner and got his man, while Matthews was held on third. Coombs had a spasm then and passed Hazelton. It is to be in the melee, Pinch Hitter Simon pinched a scorcher for one base and Matty went in. Skelley kindly went out on a grounder to Coombs who tossed to "Rube" on first.

The Giant's prospects were below par up to the eighth inning, and then just a little rejuvener was injected. Stankard sliced a beauty off between right and center, and the crowd awoke from its lethargy. Morey followed with three feeble swings at the elusive ball, and Burns put up a popper for Simon to gobble. But Coombs swung good and hard on the ball. The last seen of it, the horsehide was disappearing over the center field fence, tagged: "I'm a home run."

Eaton, McMahon and Shaughnessy faded away like shadows before Vickers'

DIAMONDS.

"Rube" Vickers was so ambitious to hit the ball once that he swung himself completely off his feet, landing in a heap, while the natives yelled with pure delight.

Except in two innings Coombs pitched gilt-edged ball. Coombs bats like "Sheldon" and when he hits the ball goes.

"Boots" McMahon dropped two balls into Deiningger's hands which everybody felt sure were meant for homers.

The Giants' batting averages were pruned down by the mighty Vickers.

Every man, except Stankard and Burns, of the Intercity struck out, and Ashmore, Dorman, Eaton, Shaughnessy and Morey were twice victims.

Although Matthews, the colored short stop, didn't do any wonderful stunts, he acted like a gentleman, which is more than some of the audience can say for themselves.

Burns' error in the fifth was costly, as Dovid should have been out at the plate. Simon's pinch hit came when there should have been three out.

TRIMMED THE LEADERS.

Rutland Hit Washburn Hard and Plattsburg Made Errors.

Rutland, July 10.—Rutland trimmed the leaders of the Northern league Saturday afternoon by bunching hits and taking advantage of the visitors' errors. Minahan was back in the game again, and pitched effective ball for Rutland, while Washburn was touched up at frequent intervals. Plattsburg played a ragged game in the field, and the errors were costly. Duff is still out of the game, his place being taken by the Albany leaguer. The score:

NEITHER SIDE COULD WIN

Rangers and Northfield Tied, One to One.

AFTER AN EXCITING GAME

Both Teams Put Up an Excellent Defensive Game and After the First Half There Was Little Chance to Score.

Northfield, July 10.—After a long, hard battle neither the Barre Rangers nor the Northfield association foot ball eleven was able to win Saturday afternoon. The halves were 35 minutes in length. During the first half Hughes and Clark shot a goal one for each side, and after that the defense was so strong that it was impossible to get the ball through again. The game throughout was most exciting. A Kelley refereed the game, and the linesmen were Mitchell and Anderson.

A fair sized crowd witnessed the contest. It is likely that the two teams will meet again soon.

BASE BALL NOTES.

Pitcher Minahan who was fined and released by the Rutland management this week because he refused to play, was reinstated today and if he continues to fulfill the terms of his contract during the balance of the season the fine will be remitted. He was expected to pitch in the game with Plattsburg here this afternoon. A Troy, N. Y., pitcher named Brown came to Rutland this afternoon, but it was stated just before the game that he probably would not occupy the box today in view of Minahan's reinstatement.—Rutland News.

The ball season is well under way in Vermont. Burlington, the winning team in the league last season, won out at the first game in Burlington June 23d, but since then has been having a series of bad luck. A few lost games at the beginning are sometimes a spur to the ambitions of a team, and inspires hard work instead of a swelled head, a rather better equipment for victory at the end of a season than early success.—Bradford Opinion. Let the Burlington team take fresh courage!

The St. Albans Messenger indulges in a little pleasantry with Burlington as follows: It has been suggested by a local base ball fan that a game between the Swanton team of the Franklin county league and the Burlington team in the Northern league would be an interesting contest. The fan suggested that it be played on the local ground and that, as the teams seem to be bound to be at the tail end of their respective leagues one or the other might possibly win a game, and thus vary the monotony of the thing.

"Rube" Vickers has made another move to secure his release outright from Holyoke, but as yet he lacks the necessary device to attain his end. "Rube" wrote yesterday that he would drop down from Burlington, Vt., Sunday to talk over matters with Holyoke, and he respectfully requested the Holyokers to see things in his light as much as possible. "Rube" has made two or three appeals for release but the Holyoke directors say nothing definite can be done until some more business-like arrangement is put forth.—Springfield, Mass. Republican.

FIRST MEETING SINCE WAR.

Former Vermonters, Now of Mile City Montana, Visiting Here.

Burlington, July 10.—John S. Towers of Mile City, Montana, is spending some time in this city and in Richmond visiting relatives and friends. Mr. Towers is accompanied by his wife.

MOXIE

"Is this the genuine Moxie?"
"Of course it is. You don't suppose for a minute that we, or any other reputable druggist would trifle with the health of our customers by serving them with anything but the genuine."

"Just look at that label! You may be sure that when a druggist gives you Moxie from the original bottle with the label intact, you are getting the genuine."

"We don't blame you for being particular, for Moxie, besides being refreshing, is a genuine nerve food. The most careful and rigid analysis shows it does not contain a particle of alcohol or any narcotic, poisonous drug, or chemical preservative."

"What's more, when I get thirsty I drink Moxie in preference to anything else I have in the fountain."

$2.50 per case; 25 cents per bottle; 5 cents per glass at all fountains.

FOR STATE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Tennis Tournament at St. Johnsbury Begins August 8.

The annual lawn tennis tournament for the championship of Vermont will be held on the courts of the Old Pine Golf club at St. Johnsbury, the tournament beginning Tuesday, August 8th. The winner of the singles will be required to play R. L. James, the present state champion, and the winner of this match will be awarded a handsome silver cup offered by the Old Pine Golf club, which becomes the property of the player winning it three times. This cup was won in 1903 by Henry Mollenhauer and in 1904 by R. L. James. The winners of the championship doubles will be required to play Sprague and Fairbanks, the present champions. There will be consolation singles open to all players actually defeated in the first round. A suitable prize will be awarded the winner.

Entries close Monday, August 7, at 8 p. m., and should be sent with entrance fees to A. G. Sprague, secretary, St. Johnsbury, Vt. The committee in charge of the tournament are Joseph Fairbanks, A. G. Sprague, Chas. W. Steele, A. F. Stone, F. W. Taylor, Jr., Albert A. Ricker and C. H. Dempsey.

MAY SUTTON CHAMPION.

Wins Woman's Lawn Tennis Honors of Great Britain.

London, July 10.—Miss May Sutton of California is the woman lawn tennis champion of Great Britain, the title coming to her Saturday when she defeated Miss Douglas, holder of the title, in the challenge match by a score of 6-3, 6-4.

ENOSBURG LAD DROWNED

Rodney Holden Taken With Cramps While Bathing in Missisquoi River.

Enosburg Falls, July 10.—Rodney Holden, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Holden of this place, was drowned between 1:30 and 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon near Gould's island in the Missisquoi river.

The lad was swimming with Max Barnes. His body was recovered about twenty minutes after he went down, but the boy could not be revived, though strenuous efforts were made to do so.

The boys had gone bathing soon after dinner and it is thought that the Holden boy was taken with cramps as he was standing just before he went under the water. He is survived by his parents and three brothers.

FLY CATCHES.

Flene, the new Toledo pitcher, seems to be a valuable acquisition.

In its last series Pittsburg won two games in succession from the New York team, Dreyfuss getting sweet revenge for the McGraw incident.

They say Chesbro is consumed with a desire to try his skill on the mat. He is talking of arranging a private bout with John Anderson, who is a skillful wrestler.

Patsy Tebeau's raid on the Tri-state league has had no tangible results as yet. The Louisville club could absorb any talent he might secure with advantage to its standing.

Some managers in the American association wonder why Columbus draws larger crowds than other places on the circuit. The reason is very simple, however. Columbus has a winning team.

American league clubs will not be limited to a certain number of players this season. That rule has been side-tracked by common consent, and each club will carry more men than formerly.

TALES OF CITIES.

It is estimated that New York spends $50,000,000 for its summer holidays.

Although the population of New York is fewer by a good million than that of London, the number of deaths last year in the two cities was practically the same.

In Houston, Tex., hot biscuit for breakfast and rice for dinner and supper and lunch are staple on every table. Diminutive pepper berries go with everything.

Winnipeg, Man., is said to be the fastest growing city in the world. It is thirty years old, has a population of 80,000 and has seventeen banks. Its wholesale trade in 1903 amounted to $150,000,000.

The City of Beggars.

Rome is still the city of beggars, as it was in the days of the Antonines or Gregory the Great or the latest of the sovereign pontiffs.

Rich Nut Food.

Walnuts, butternuts, almonds and Spanish peanuts are full of oils and nutriment, are much more sustaining than meats and easily digested if thoroughly masticated.

Sick Wives and Daughters.

You have often seen them with pale faces, poor appetite, head and
